

A COLLECTION OF
STORIES
FROM
WEST AFRICA

Compiled and Illustrated by
David A. Naff

TWO BOYS AND THEIR OWN TRUE FATHER

Copyrights and Creative Commons license

The license used here makes 7 important provisions.

You are free, indeed encouraged, to do the following:

- Copy, print, distribute, display, and teach from Spark materials in any way you wish.
- Make changes for your own use and for distribution to others.
- Make any sort of non-commercial copies, ministry copies, or personal copies, from any Spark material, without further notice.

Under the following conditions:

- You properly cite the original authors of the material you find here. Pages on www.vernacularmedia.org without a clear authorship should be cited to vernacularmedia.org on your copies.
- You must retain the BY-NC-SA license on your copies of materials copied from www.vernacularmedia.org. (You must not trample the commons.)
- You must not change the license. (You must not steal from the commons.)
- You must ask for permission for use of Spark materials outside of this list. (You need permission to take work out of the commons.)

By Spark Team

TWO BOYS AND THEIR OWN TRUE FATHER

Note to the reader: words and phrases typical of West Africa are retained and indicated by italics.

Two boys went out from their own home and their own father to find their way in the world. They wanted to see what it was like in other places. They thought their father did not have good ways. They thought they could do better somewhere else, so turned away from their father's help. These two boys were very good hunters and seldom failed to bring back a meat when they went out hunting.

After looking about for some time they came to one fine town where a rich man gave them a place to sleep. He lived in a big house made of sawed timber. When he saw what good hunters they were, he gave them a fine place in the town and told them they could marry his daughters. Every day they brought him fine meat from the bush. The rich man was very happy to have them there because he liked good meat. He treated them well and even called them, "my sons."

"You see how my sons can be clever so. Every day, every day they bring me fine fine meat. I never see hunter before who can catch meat every day." The old man (a term of respect) was always talking to strangers about these two boys, calling them, "my sons." The two boys thought that they were doing very well.

Then after a long time had passed, the two boys were talking.

"The old pa can treat us fine too much."

"But we bring him plenty fine meat."

"Yes, but I wonder if he likes us or the meat."

"For true. What will happen if we bring him no meat for two-three days?"

"But if we just do not hunt, he will think that we are trying to trick him."

"He might vex if he thought that we be kroakagii (tricky fellows) or wear beds (lazy). We must make careful plan." So they talked and made a careful plan.

The next day they went out to hunt and shot an ape. They wrapped him up in a cloth and carried him to the edge of town.

As they got near town they began to wail, "Oh! my people. Oh! my people!"

The people began to crowd around them.

Then the people said to the boys, "What must we do? Your old pa can say he does not know you. Who will beg for you in the court?"

The two boys said, "Call our own pa what born us. Maybe he will come to help us."

So the court sent a messenger to call the boys own true father from their own home town.

When he heard the news, without any hesitation he said, "Yes, they are my own sons. You can kill me, but they are my own born sons. Yes, I will come to the court to be with them."

When the boys heard this they decided to return to their own true father's town. He would be true to them even when they were in trouble. Even though he was not rich, he would not forsake them.

The boys said, "Yes, it is good that we live close by our own true father. He has true love for us. Now we know who will be true to us."

Of course, when they uncovered the body and saw that it was only an ape, the case was closed. Some people were angry saying, "Why do these strangers play some kind of trick on us? Who do they think they are?" Others just laughed and said, "That was a good joke. They found their true father."

Besides our own father who born us, we have one of two other fathers. In John 8:44 Jesus said, "You belong to your father, the devil, and you want to carry out your father's desire. ... there is no truth in him...."

But if we put our trust in Jesus, we have another Father. He is in heaven. He is our true Father. We can talk to Him.

When Adam and Eve sinned they realized they were naked. All they could do was sew fig leaves together for clothing and hide from God. But God did not turn away from them. He called them back to Him, and made them clothes of skin. He will NEVER turn away from those who return to Him. John 6:37 says, "...whoever comes to Me I will never drive away."

Our great Father God in heaven is all powerful and he loves us. Let us choose to let Him be our true Father.

© 2002 David A. Naff

Scripture taken from the HOLY BIBLE. NEW INTERNATIONAL VERSION®. Copyright © 1973, 1978, 1984 by International Bible Society. Used by permission of Zondervan Publishing House. All rights reserved.